

CONFERENCE FOCUSING SECOND GREEN REVOLUTION TO BE HELD FROM OCT 23 TO 25

Panaji: October 17, 2026

The Asian PGPR Society, in collaboration with the Goa College of Agriculture, will be hosting 9th Asian PGPR International Conference from October 23, 2026 to October 25, 2026 at Hotel Vivanta, Panaji. The conference will focus on the theme "BioAg Inputs (Biosolutions) for the Second Green Revolution," highlighting the growing importance of biological solutions in transforming agricultural production systems and addressing emerging challenges in food security, soil health and environmental sustainability.

Chief Minister Dr. Pramod Sawant, will inaugurate the conference. The event will bring together leading scientists, agricultural researchers, academicians, policymakers and industry representatives to explore innovative approaches to reducing excessive dependence on chemical inputs and promoting environmentally responsible agricultural practices.

The conference is expected to attract international delegates from the USA, Australia, China, Saudi Arabia, Indonesia, Malaysia, Taiwan, the Philippines, South Korea and other countries. Their participation will provide an opportunity to share research findings, discuss emerging scientific developments and explore collaborative initiatives in agricultural biotechnology and microbial applications.
